Lisabi Fridell

Director of Photography FSF

Biography

Lisabi Fridell is a cinematographer based in Berlin who works all over the world. During her professional career she has been acknowledged for her photography in both feature films and documentaries. Her work is rather unconventional, and if anything defines her style it is versatility, always based on telling the story in a unique fashion. She is not afraid to explore and experiments with different techniques, colours and shapes with the intention of innovating and, if possible, enhance the story. She prefers to work closely with the directors and to influence the whole process from an early stage. The films she has worked on are characterised by their transgressive spirit and by their defence of feminist values.

In the field of feature films she has worked with filmmakers including Ester Martin Bergsmark on Nånting måste gå sönder (Something Must Break 2014), winner of the Tiger award at the Rotterdam Festival, Pater Modestij on 6a (2016), presented in the Generation 14Plus at the Berlin Festival, Selma Vilhunen on Hölmö nuori sydän (StupidYoung Heart, 2018), with which she returned to the same section of the Berlinale, and Levan Akin on And Then We Danced (2019), premiered in the Quinzaine des Réalisateurs at the last Cannes Festival.

In short films, she has repeatedly collaborated with the director Lovisa Sirén and the producer Siri Hjorton Wagner with whom she has worked on Pussy Have the Power (2014), Audition (2015) and Baby (2016).
